

The Light Path
Lecture #9 of Year Three

The Light Beings Speak

*I ask the divine light guide us and protect us. I call forth the beings of light and love, truth and wisdom.
And I ask now that all that we need for the divine enfolding of our souls, on all levels of our existence, manifest peacefully and lovingly.*

The journey of the soul back to the energy of the spirit has many expressions in all the worlds of form and thought and energy and light. Many of you have this simplistic concept that if you just heal your childhoods, line up your chakras, set your thoughts clear and balance your aura, all will be right with the world, and, especially, your own path to enlightenment.

In this time of nature's darkness before her rebirth, you must not forget your own light. You are energy. Not just bearers of energy, but energy itself. Do not forget that your bodies are pure energy in dense form; there is no difference. We say that, as we feel all of you bearing down under the pressure of denseness. Remember, you are light. You do not create light, you are IT. However, you can create darkness, and we caution you not to do this.

Earth is slower now in this time of hibernation before rebirth. She is gathering energy from all of your energy so it is important to remember that you are made of energy and therefore have enough to give, to "spare" as it were. Earth needs you just as you need her. She is your energy source, and she relies upon your energy for her source, too.

Call forth your guides and highest beings. Bring down the extra energy you need. Open your crown chakras and accept more light and love. Love creates boundless energy. To accept more love is to accept more energy – to help Earth regenerate her season of rebirth and renewed spirit.

We are available to help you. If you feel your denseness "hinders" you, call upon your Highest selves, the selves you picture without body, just pure light. Ask It (you) to accept more energy. Like a child who has made the jump from seeing the letters to reading her first book, proclaiming that she now knows everything because she reads, you need to keep learning to access the more advanced lessons. Have patience and keep learning.

Yes, indeed, all of those above things are very important, and we are here to encourage you, to inspire you to see yourselves as fluid beings of light, constantly integrating various levels of consciousness and energy, and disintegrating those levels, actions and forms that no longer serve the spirit. You are an ever-changing instrument of soul, tool of the spiritual world.

Learning is never complete. The great creator never stops creating and you, as an aspect of the great creator, never stop creating. So it is important to look within yourselves and consider how you limit yourselves by viewing completion as an end product instead of a point, focus point, on the ever expanding being that you are. We bring this up at this time because your physical world seems to be, to us at least, setting up systems of organization that are based on closed systems, closed products. Your technology is based on a very mechanistic end product view. If you program this, then that will happen. If you advertise this way, so many people will respond. If you invest this way, you'll get so much percentage back. This might be all in good for your practical, form-level living, but let us remind you that your energy is much more organic, lively, fluctuating, responding more to thoughts and images in the core of your soul.

Remember that you are constantly creating. You all know that aligning a thought with energy can instantly create what your heart and soul wants to bring forth. There is also the aspect that the other bodies of your being, including the bodies of your earth being, the etheric, etc. and your other aspects living in other dimensions, are constantly interacting with this dimension, this body you are constantly focusing in. You might plan a very structured creative act but one of your selves at a higher vibration might change the process and surprise your ego.

To live joyfully and peacefully means to surrender to the process of creativity. Yes, it is important to know how to exist in your world with all its structures and belief systems, but it is equally, and perhaps more important, to accept living beyond this world, with ever changing creating dynamic existences.

So if you are feeling frustrated by your limitations in this form existence, taking the time to move your focus, from earth-bound mechanistic living to spirit energy flow, is the path to peace and fulfillment. Balancing both success in form world and freedom in spirit world is truly living dynamically alive.
